CancerLINC provides outreach and educational services to the community and for cancer patients, survivors, and their families.

Outreach is community-based.

1. CancerLINC welcomes invitations to attend health fairs, and speak at support groups, churches, clubs, and organizations. To invite LINC to your event, please call 804-562-0592.
2. CancerLINC also provides literature and handbooks for hospitals, doctor offices, hospices, and anyone else who works with or cares for cancer patients and survivors. Literature can be ordered by calling 804-562-0592, Option 2, or emailing info@cancerlinc.org.

Education is provided through a series of free seminars that LINC schedules at local hospitals. These seminars provide far-reaching benefits because each person who attends gains valuable knowledge that they share with their support group or circle of friends. By providing useful information and sharing successful strategies for surviving the non-medical side of cancer, LINC helps cancer patients feel that they are in control, and not the disease.
