DART (Demand and Response Transportation) is an on-demand, fare-free, curb-to-curb para-transportation service for UVA students and employees, who, due to a disability, are not able to use the University Transit Service (UTS), the fixed-route transit system at UVA. DART runs whenever UTS is in service. Visit the website to see DART's schedule.

Demand and Response Transportation (DART) was developed with the Office for Equal Opportunity and Civil Rights (EOCR) to provide transportation to people who are unable to use fixed-route bus service due to a disability. Students and employees become eligible for the program (i.e., become DART riders) by submitting an application to the UVA Office for Equal Opportunity and Civil Rights.

DART rides are provided by Yellow Cab of Charlottesville through a procurement contract with the UVA Department of Parking & Transportation. The rides, which are provided within defined DART service times and areas, are fare-free for the DART rider.

Both the rider's guide and the application are available online.
